MUSSOLINI doesn't believe in democracy. Thus far results seem to support his beliefs.

Democracy, on the other hand, doesn't believe in Mussolini. Whether democracy really long run democracy or Mussolini had the right idea only history will tell.

• • •

MEANWHILE Mussolini plans to do away with anything like democratic government in Italian colonies. Something like the old Roman system of proconsuls will be established and policies directed by the governing influence of Italy.

GREAT BRITAIN, old in colonizing, takes the other tack, saying to her colonies: "Run yourselves and let's be friends."

Britain's next big test is promised India. Non-Asiatic observers predict trouble and describe "raging discontent." They find everywhere a demand for "liberty," which is interesting considering that in 5,000 years of Indian literature the word "liberty" has never printed until recently.

WHATEVER may happen to Britain, in India, future generations will remember with amazement that 100,000 Britishers in India were able to hold down 300,000,000 Asiatics and at the same time do away with Suttee (the burning alive of India's widows) and the terrible system of child marriage.

Death Victor as Pals Attempt to Save Frick's Life

EVANSTON, Ill., Mar. 11—Fifty-seven tight-lipped men were back on the job at the Illinois Public Service Co. today—the tragedy in their hearts written on every face.

Alfred Frick, their buddy, the man for whom each had given his full time and energy since last Sunday morning in an effort to save his life, will sit among them no more. The tense human drama closed with death the victor.

Frick, who had come to be known as the "living dead man" died at St. Francis Hospital at 10:10 o'clock last night after his 57 fellow workers had kept him alive 108 hours by pressing the walls of his chest to give him the breath of life.

DEATH came quietly. Shortly before the end, the brave youth—he was only 22—looked up at his father and mother and smiled a faint smile that seemed to say "farewell." He was too weak to talk. A moment later he lapsed into a coma and did not regain consciousness.

But tragic as was his death, even more tragic was the grief of his friends—that crew of loyal men who had labored day and night, in teams of two, and in 15-minute relays, in the hope that life would win. Many of the men, unashamed, broke down and wept. The two who were on duty when Dr. H. H. Conley pronounced the patient dead, refused to quit the task, hoping against hope that they could revive the spark of life.

• • •

YOUNG FRICK was stricken early Sunday with Landry's paralysis, a very rare disease. It cut off the nerve supply to the diaphragm and chest walls, causing the lungs to collapse. Breathing stopped. Technically, the youth was "dead." But it was found that by pressing the sides of his chest, bellows fashion, artificial respiration could be produced.

He was thus kept alive and a hurried call sent out for volunteers to help in the strenuous physical work of pressing his sides. Fifty-seven men with whom he worked answered the call. They organized teams and began the long battle with death working in 15-minute relays.

Physicians hoped that if the patient could be kept alive long enough the paralyzed nerve and normal work of the lungs be resumed.

HOUR after hour the brave "comrade crew" worked, hoping that their efforts would restore their friend to health. Even the pessimistic views of the specialists who watched the case with interest, could not discourage them. Frick's life was in their hands. Medical science had done its best and failed. But they would pull him through. That was the spirit of the "comrade crew." And that their grief must be understood.

Physicians who could not help but look on the patient's condition and direct the efforts of the "breathing crew," told all along that young Frick was doomed. What few records of Landry paralysis cases that could be had argued against a favorable prognosis.

• • •

SEVERAL hours before his death Frick rallied and was able to speak a few words to the boys of his family. He used the breath that his friends loved to and out of his wasted lungs to whisper words of good cheer to those he loved.

"Don't worry, Mom," he said to his mother. "I've got a fighting chance."

His father said that as soon as he got well they would have a party for him.

Small wonder Miss Marion, the nurse," asked his father, trying to control his voice.

"Sure thing," said Frick, then fainted.

"Those were his last words.

Frick had been on the brink of death's life it was learned. Several years ago he went to Colorado and lived in the mountains, but believing he had regained his health he returned to Evanston to finish his studies, on account of his health he was a student at Northwestern University.

ELEVEN VICTIMS IN TWO FIRES ARE CHILDREN

One Father Pours Kerosene into Coals To Get Better Results

ONE STOVE OVERHEATED

Nine in One House Lose Lives and Six More in Another

Fifteen persons are dead today, 11 of them children in fires that destroyed two homes, one in Tunnelton, Pa., and the other in Brown's Mills, N. J.

Both fires originated in stoves. At Tunnelton an overheated stove is believed to have caused the blaze. At Brown's Mills the father of the family poured kerosene into the kitchen stove to get a blaze.

• • •

Salisbury, Pa., Mar. 11—Nine persons were burned to death when fire of undetermined origin destroyed the home of Clarence Marsh, in Tunnelton, near here today.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marsh and their five children.

Mrs. Harry Montgomery and one child.

Only one occupant of the house, a frame structure, escaped with his life. He was Harry, Montgomery, whose wife and child perished in the flames. Montgomery leaped from a window.

The fire is believed to have started shortly after 1 a. m. When discovered it had gained such headway that it was impossible for neighbors to attempt to rescue the victims, trapped behind curtains of fire.

Had Attended Funeral

Less than 12 hours before the Marshs had attended the funeral of Marsh's sister-in-law. They returned to their home late last night.

While authorities could not ascertain definitely the cause of the fire, because of the charred condition of the ruins, they believe an overheated stove may have been responsible.

Neighbors, borrowing through the blackened ruins when the latter had cooled sufficiently for exploration, found two bodies. Both were burned beyond recognition. Searchers still are hunting the seven other victims.

FATHER AND FIVE CHILDREN BURNED

Brown's Mills, N. J., Mar. 11—William Stevenson, laborer, and five of his seven children were burned to death early today when their home here was destroyed by fire which followed an explosion when Stevenson poured kerosene into the kitchen stove.

Clara Stevenson, 20, is expected to die from injuries received when she jumped from a second story window. She is in the hospital with two broken hips.

Mrs. Rebecca Stevenson, the mother, together with William Stevenson, Jr., 15, escaped but Mrs. Stevenson, numbed by the tragedy, could not remember how she got out.

The children burned to death were Ernest, 11, Shinn, 12, Alfred, 9, Mildred, 6, and Lillian, one month old.

Pours Kerosene

Clara, from her hospital bed, told the story of the fire. She said she arose early this morning and went to the kitchen to heat a nursing bottle for Lillian, the baby.

The coal fire in the range was only flickering so Clara awakened her father to help her. Stevenson poured kerosene from a can into the stove.

An explosion followed which shook the house. The clothing of Stevenson and Clara caught fire. Each tried to help the others but became excited when the kitchen burst into flames.

Falls Downstairs

Stevenson attempted to go upstairs and warn his family but collapsed. Clara and she finally succeeded in getting up the stairs.

The entire house soon was afire. Clara leaped from a window and was found unconscious.

Meantime Mrs. Stevenson tried to carry her to youngest children downstairs. She fell on the stairway, dropping both children. She was unable to relate how she escaped.

William, Jr., the third survivor, jumped from a window.

45 MOTORISTS NOTIFIED TO APPEAR IN COURT

Police Department Turns Over Well-Filled Docket to Judge Martin

A well-filled docket was turned over to Municipal Judge Matrin by the police department this morning when the weekly traffic court session convened. Forty-five cars were tagged by officers during the last week and all of the owners were notified to appear in court today.

At noon 18 had responded to the summons and others were expected in before the close of the day. Officers will be instructed to bring in those who fail to make their appearance today.

All of the charges were for violation of parking rules and with one exception, no penalties were passed by the court, due to the fact that each case was a first offense.

John Lombardo, 132 Scioto-st, drew the only fine. He was assessed $2 when he is said to have become rather unruly in his conversation with the court.

ONE FREIGHTER SUNK, ANOTHER IS DAMAGED

Crew of First Vessel Leaps into Water and Later Is Rescued

New York, Mar. 11—One freighter was sunk and another badly damaged today in a bow-on collision in the fog near Robbins Reef, off Greenville, N. J.

Members of the crew of the sunken vessel leaped into the water with life preservers. Most of them were rescued by tugboats but it was reported several men were drifting in the fog.

The freighter which sunk was the El Sol, of the Southern Pacific Line, bound from Galveston to New York with a cargo of cotton. The other vessel is the Sao City of the American Diamond Line bound for Antwerp.

The El Sol carried a crew of 46. Captain Knoels was in command. It was reported there were several passengers on one of the freighters.

Menus Upside Down

English Dental Expert Urges Americans To Save Their Teeth by Eating Dessert First and Apples or Nuts Last, and Feeding Babies Toast

BOSTON, Mar. 11—American dinner menus are upside down. They begin with fruit and end with starchy, sugary desserts. They should finish with apples, oranges, or nuts; and start off with a dish of potatoes and a taste of sweets, if the teeth of the nation are to be preserved.

Dr. J. Sims Wallace, British dental expert, after studying Yankee teeth, has decided that the dentists on this side of the water are first-rate, but the cooks are poor. He is positive that if the housewives would listen to him, their dentists' bills would be cut to less than half.

His rules for not having to go to the dentist are simple enough: Finish every meal with a cleansing food like fresh fruit, nuts, raw vegetables, crusts of bread, meat, fish, or bacon; and begin it with any starchy or sugary dish. If you must have sweets, chocolate, or biscuits, eat them only at meal times and follow them by a cleanser. Chew your food well and breathe through your nose.

His Experiments

Dr. Wallace, who is a member of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons in London, has experimented with his theories on English children and has had fine results. He has collected statistics of the decay of teeth in children of five, both before and after the war. By the increase from 5 per cent in 1914 to 48 per cent in 1919 of children with perfect teeth, he proves that in time of war, when sugar and milk are scarce, teeth are healthier.

Dr. J. Sims Wallace

This "dentist-doctor is not an advocate of milk babies. He thinks that at eight or nine months, when their teeth begin to appear, infants should immediately be given solids like toasted bread and butter. Their milk should be decreased, and cleansing foods should be given after the milk, as soon as the child is old enough. At two years of age, a baby should have three meals a day (soup to nuts is the proper order), just as his parents have. Eating between meals and drinking during them should be discouraged.

Senate's Refusal To Advance Further Sums To Force Program Postponement

Washington, Mar. 11—The senatorial slush fund investigations, which stirred the country last year, will be dropped until after congress reconvenes in December, it was learned today, with the Reed committee abandoning all activity for the present.

The committee's program for inquiring into the Colorado senatorial election of 1926 and for the seizure of ballots in Pennsylvania was halted by the refusal of senate officials to advance any further sums. Lack of money, it was conceded, will force the committee to indefinitely postpone all activity, an object which even a three-day filibuster in the senate, just before adjournment, failed to accomplish.

"There won't be much activity by the committee this summer," said Senator McNary, Republican, of Oregon, a member. "In fact, without funds, I do not see how the committee can accomplish anything more until congress reconvenes in December. The committee will meet again Mar. 25 to decide its course of action but I cannot see how it will act without funds."

Senator McNary announced that Senator Goff, Republican, of West Virginia, had resigned from the Reed committee. McNary said he had planned to do likewise because of the pressure of other work in connection with farm relief legislation but that in view of the present developments, he would "remain as a member."

Talks to Students in All Parts of Building Without Budging from His Office

Central Junior High School Principal Makes Use of Unique Broadcasting System To Address Pupils and Relay Messages to Class Rooms

Making announcements to the entire student body of the school without moving from his desk in his office through a broadcasting system that reaches the students in their rooms, is the way W. E. Orcutt, principal of Central Junior High School, now talks to the students each morning.

Central Junior High School boasts what is probably the only miniature broadcasting station in the country. The set is what is known in radio parlance as an "address system," which is used exclusively now in meetings and conventions to carry the speaker's voice to all parts of the room.

"Stand By"

Orcutt sits at his desk in his office, picks up a microphone made from a telephone mouthpiece, and speaks into it. Three loud speakers, one in the rear building, and two in the main building of the school, carry his voice to the teachers and students. The bell system of the school is used to notify teachers to "stand by" for announcements. Orcutt pushes the bell button three times, the teachers open the door of the room, and Orcutt's voice is heard throughout the room.

The system has been in operation for more than a week now and has been found to work perfectly.

C. E. Burk, of the Van-Bur Radio Co. did most of the work on the mechanism that "steps up" the sounds. Orcutt and several boys of the science class strung the wires for the loud speakers and did other work on the set. Burk assembled the amplifying set and did the necessary hookup work. The cost of the set has been almost nominal, as parts of the old radio set at the school were used.

How Idea Originated

The idea of making announcements in this way originated with Orcutt several weeks ago when the school savings deposits took a slump. Casting about for some way to get the attention of the students and impress them with the necessity of thinking about the school savings plan, Orcutt decided to have a boy broadcast the savings reports of each room as they were made each Tuesday, through a megaphone.

The plan had splendid results. In a few weeks the school savings deposits jumped 20 per cent. Out of this megaphone stunt came the broadcasting idea. The possibilities of the plan were gone over and the set now in use resulted.

Since the broadcasting system has

Columbus, Mar. 11—H. H. Scott, Troy, superintendent of the state banking department, today was preparing to leave his position and assume his new duties as a vice president of the Bankers' Trust Co., Toledo, a newly organized institution.

Superintendent Scott submitted his resignation to Gov. Vic Donahey, effective Mar. 15.

Reluctantly accepting Scott's resignation, the governor announced that E. H. Blair, Brown County, will serve as acting superintendent, temporarily in charge of the state banking department.

Blair, for some years, has been an examiner in the state banking department.

Marines' Spanish Awful! Disrupts Phone Service

MANAGUA Nicaragua, Mar. 11—The cities of Masaya and Cuidad Dario were occupied today by 250 marines each. Citizens of the towns had asked for the marines, and large crowds gathered at the railway stations to accord the foreign fighters an enthusiastic welcome.

The U. S. Marines are here in such numbers now that they have become a real factor in the daily life of Nicaragua. This was given evidence today when the telephone girls of Managua issued a statement charging that telephone service has been impaired because they are kept busy "telling it to the marines."

The girls published an explanatory letters telling the public that the had telephone service which Managua has experienced recently has been due to the necessity of the girls' spending so much time with calls of the American "Leathernecks." It seems the marines speak Spanish so awkwardly that their telephone calls average 15 minutes each.

There is not a single English language magazine for sale in Managua. Two hundred late copies of American magazines which arrived yesterday afternoon were sold out within two hours, one news stand handling the entire batch. The marines were the purchasers.

Clarence is Worried 'Bout Them Lions of Mr. Coolidge

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11—Clarence Jackson, the diminutive bow-legged colored youth who became under the title of "master of hounds" at the White House, wore a distinctly worried look today.

For the first time since Clarence took up the job of looking after the presidential menagerie of dogs, cats, raccoons, squirrels, et cetera, a fear has crept into his mind that perhaps the job isn't all that a colored boy could desire.

The reason for Clarence's worry is a cablegram received by President Coolidge from the mayor of Johannesburg, South Africa, to the general effect that two lions are being sent him as a gift from the city of Johannesburg. They will be along in a few weeks.

The master of the hounds had not quite realized that when he was gravely informed by Mr. Coolidge of the impending arrival, and just what would be necessary in the way of their care and comfort.

"Are they mean and ornery, Mr. President?" asked Clarence dubiously.

"Not particularly, I believe," said the president. "One of them is said to have a very benevolent disposition. The other is somewhat addicted to biting."

Clarence wasn't sure about the meaning of addiction, but he did understand what biting meant.

... thank you," said Uncle Wiggily. ... carrots." And then he went ... speaking of string, here's a pin," ... stooped and picked one up off ...

"What is a bent pin!" objected Uncle Butter coming away from the advertisement billboard. "It's bent crooked."

"It can be easily be straightened," said Mr. Longears.

The rabbit stuck the bent pin on the edge of his coat, and then hopped on to catch up to Uncle Butter who, feeling quite frisky after his lunch of paper, was some distance ahead.

"Where are you going, Wig?" bleated the goat as the rabbit was once more walking beside him.

"Well, I thought we might stop at the Hollow Stump School and ask the Lady Mouse Teacher to let us hear the children sing," said the bunny. "You know of listening in and you ate part of a radio set so how about a bit of broadcasting."

"Fine!" bleated the goat, and soon they were at the Hollow Stump School being welcomed by the Lady Mouse Teacher who invited them in.

"Of course I'll have the children sing for you," she said.

Uncle Butter and Uncle Wiggily sat on the platform, and while the children were taking their places in the front seats Baby Bunty slipped slyly up to Uncle Wiggily and whispered:

"Have you a pin?"

"Only a bent one," answered the rabbit gentleman taking it from his coat edge. "Will that do?"

"Just fine!" whispered Bunty! "I'd have to bend it anyhow, for what I want, but if it's bent already so much the better."

Uncle Wiggily gave the little orphan rabbit girl the bent pin he had picked up. He thought perhaps her stocking was coming down and needed fastening. But he did not pay much attention to Bunty after that, for the Lady Mouse Teacher had arranged all the children in their seats, and now she said:

"Sing for Uncle Wiggily! Sing for Uncle Butter!"

But before a single sweet note could be sounded, all of a sudden Floppy Twistytail, the fat, piggie boy, leaped from his seat howling:

"Oh, I sat on a pin! I sat on a bent pin! Oh, yowzie wow!"

"Whose bent pin is this?" sternly squeaked the Lady Mouse Teacher as she took it from Floppy's seat.

"It's Uncle Wiggily's!" quickly answered Baby Bunty. "He gave it to me!"

"Oh, Bunty!" shricked the Lady Mouse. "What a little tyke you are! Did you give her this pin, Uncle Wiggily?" she asked.

"Yes," said the rabbit gentleman, sort of confused like, while Uncle Butter laughed. "I found a bent pin. My goat friend here said it was of no use. But I thought Bunty could use it, and—"

"I did!" said the cut-up little orphan rabbit. I put it on the pig boy's seat but I didn't think it would hurt Floppy much when he sat on it—he's so fat!"

Well, of course it was a wrong thing to do, and Bunty had to be sent out of the room and punished. After that the singing went on. But Uncle Wiggily said after this he would be more careful to whom he gave bent pins.

"You'd better!" laughter Uncle Butter.

And if the lemon squeezer will put a strawberry in the gasolene that the auto drinks, to make it look like ice cream, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's paper basket.

Don't Risk Pneumonia By Neglecting a Cold

A cough or cold may only make you feel miserable today. But when you begin to feel "achy" and feverish, with a tightness in your chest, congestion is reaching your bronchial tubes—and these tubes lead directly into your lungs!

Quickly and unfailingly Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops a cough and drives out the cold.

Hospital-Proved Medicine—not just a "cough syrup"! This medication penetrates through and through the irritated membrances—and is then absorbed into the blood itself. That is how its healing powers are carried to every part of your system.

If you are catching cold; if you have a "head cold"; if your chest is tight; if you have a cough—even if bronchitis has developed—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at once! It has relieved more coughs and colds than any other medicine in the world.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is used by hospital clinics and leading physicians. Pleasant, safe and effective for children and grown people. At all druggists, 60c; twice as much, $1.00. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

GOOD NEWS FOR SKINNY FOLKS

Increase Your Weight 10 or 15 Pounds

When you are underweight, it is the surest sign that the food you eat does not give you the nourishment you need to be strong and healthy and full of vitality. Put some good solid flesh on your bones, nourish the tissues properly and you will feel like a fighting cock.

Nothing acts so quickly and surely to correct the nutritive processes as a scientific digestive stimulant. Science tells us that stimulation of the digestive organs supplies the nourishment our bodies must have to grow healthy and to have the power to resist disease and to fight the breaking down of the life forces.

A remarkable stimulant-tonic has been devised for just such conditions as these. It is delightfully palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia concern in business for nearly a century. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "Old Monticello Tonic." Get a bottle today from your druggist, take a small wineglass full before your net meal—see how much better you next meal—see how much better you tions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a quick change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy.—Adv.

BEHIND THE SCREEN

Anne Cornwall

ANNE CORNWALL, ex-musical comedy player, got her first professional experience going as a model for children's clothes for a New York concern. It was Olga Petrova who suggested that she try the movies. After some discouraging experience she is now playing leads in feature productions and comedies.

She was played leading roles opposite Bobby Vernon, Tom Mix, Douglas MacLean, Norman Kerry and Lionel Barrymore.

Miss Cornwall claims Fort Hamilton, N. Y., as her birthplace and at present she's divided her time between feature pictures and Educational Christie comedies.

Hoot Gibson, Universal's western star, is now working on "Hero On Horseback." Barbara Worth is playing the feminine role.

Connie Talmadge's next picture is to be "Breakfast at Sunrise."

Gilda Gray has signed a contract with Samuel Goldwyn to star in a picture a year for five years, to be re-

...vised through United Artists. Her other stage play in Los Angels, "The first starring picture will be "Marie Mon Wits Come Back" which Frances Starr played on the New York stage in 1914.

Louise Brooks and her associates now make up one of Cabby's Jewish Weddings," which F. B. O. is planning to produce. She has had several screen tests.

Conrad Veidt's first U. S. picture will be "The Lion" in which he plays the part of Rafle Medici instead of "The Chinese Parrot," which was originally selected.

BOSTON TRAFFIC PUZZLES BOTH CITY AND STATE

Narrow, Crooked Streets of Hub Inadequate for Modern Needs

Boston Mar. 11—The solution of Boston's traffic problem is the most puzzling proposition confronting the city and state governments. For years Boston has been noted for its narrow, crooked streets, laid out in the Colonial days and which are inadequate to modern traffic needs.

Probably the most novel scheme suggested for the alleviation of the situation is the construction of an aerial highway extending across the city to accommodate 100,000 automobiles a day and to cost a total of $15,000,000.

The highway would utilize a stretch of the Atlantic avenue elevated structure, then over the tracks of the Boston & Albany railroad to the Cottage Farm bridge in one direction, and from a point near the New Haven railroad wharf on the waterfront to the Boston end of the Charles River dam and then to Lechmere square in the other direction.

A Double Highway

The erection of such a highway would give double highway service on the most important and traversed routes in the city. Especially needed is the relief of traffic along Commonwealth avenue which is the route for motorists leaving the city for Worcester, Springfield and cities on the route to New York City.

This would be cared for by the erection of the aerial highway over the Boston & Albany tracks as far as the Cottage Farm bridge.

Connections with the street level would be made by ramps at Kenny square, State street, Dewey square and a few other important traffic centers.

Classified Traffic

Traffic over the aerial highway would be classified as express traffic inasmuch as autos entering at one end of the city would have to continue on to the other end before reaching the street level again.

The plans include a plaza at the North station for parking automobiles and also a widening of the streets at Kenny square. Legislation to put the plan into effect in preference to a proposed loop highway system is now before the state legislature.

The way it looks to us, the announcement that a man can be secured over there to take a human life for $200 isn't going to have a tendency to boost realty values in Canton.

To the average man, the worst fault of the income tax blanks is that they offer so many spaces he doesn't have to fill in. It's not only confusing, but a bit humiliating as well.

Let's give credit where credit is due. What chance would there have been for saving to the country the $210,000,000 left in the treasury had not that senate filibuster been staged?

Only 20,000 of the 1,200,000 people of Detroit voted at the recent primary held up there. But, come to think of it, the primary was designed to advance minority government.

"Crime is a national menace," says the Chicago News. At last the big city dailies are beginning to realize that "it's a situation and not a theory that confronts us," as the late Grover Cleveland would say.

This old world of ours is strong on compensations, and in this connection think of all the gadding which will be done in Painesville to make up for the present "Stay at Home" week.

In his petition for divorce, a famous football star of the University of Chicago sets up that his wife, a prize-winner in a beauty contest, never cooked a meal for him. Some people manifestly do not realize when they're well off.

New French Army Reorganization.

The new French army reorganization law which passed the chamber of deputies by a vote of 500 to thirty-one—the communists alone of all the membership of the chamber voting in opposition to it—is easily the most comprehensive measure of the kind ever proposed by a government. Not only does it place every man at the call of the country in time of war, but, in recognition of the equality of the sexes, every woman as well, the first paragraph of the preamble setting out that every French citizen over the age of twenty-one is liable to military service.

How embracing the time, service, may be is not set out. It may mean that women as well as men will be expected to bear arms, but it is far more probable that the service to be rendered by women will be such as that for which they are best fitted in maintaining the armed forces at the front.

It is stipulated that the entire economic forces of the country in every form may be requisitioned by the government in the event of war with absolute prohibition of any profits. What over here we would call "slackers" and "conscientious objectors" will not be permitted to be exceptions to the rule that every French citizen must serve France unless physically incapacitated.

The purpose of the measure is to train the entire nation for duty in the event of war and to be prepared to arm it upon notice. By this means it is anticipated that a marked reduction in the length of the terms of service of conscripts can be worked and that the total strength of the present standing army of about 700,000 can be cut down to 400,000, one-fourth of whom would be professional soldiers and the other 300,000 conscripts.

There is much to be said for the French plan. If it is the misfortune of this country ever again to be forced to go to war, we hope to see a similar war measure enforced here. There is no reason why the best blood of a nation should bear arms a $30 a month while capital and labor profiteer back home. And especially we hope that there may be special provisions, as in this French measure, for the slackers and conscientious objectors, particularly if they are affiliated with the Civil Liberties union, or the Federal Council of Churches or any of the similar organizations which are doing their utmost to obstruct government and to overthrow it, at least in its present form.

Blow to a Pernicious System.

While the recent decision of the United State supreme court reversing the Ohio courts and nullifying the Ohio statute under which mayors have been splitting fees with arresting officers was rendered in a liquor case, it appears to have given fully as much satisfaction to the motorists of the land as it has to alleged offenders against the prohibition laws who have been taken from their homes and carried before a fifty-fifty court which could make more rules profitable to court and raiders only by finding the accused guilty.

The American Automobile association has declared the decision "the most effective blow ever dealt at the fee system of arrests on the highways of America." In a statement issued by the association it is pointed out that the precedent established by the decision and the principles enunciated in the opinion handed down by the court "are entirely applicable to cases involving arrests of motorists on the highways where the fines assessed against them are split by the arresting officer and the justices of the peace or the mayors who sit in judgment."

"As long as this reprehensible practice was permitted," the association's statement continues, "collusion between arresting officers and those presiding over trials was inevitable. We may well hail the supreme court decision as establishing one of the basic planks in the Magna Charta of motoring liberty."

The case in question was that of a man by the name of Ed Tumey, who was charged with the violation of the prohibition law and taken before the mayor of the village of North College Hill, by whom he was found guilty and fined. The matter was carried through the various state courts, the supreme court of our state deciding that the proceeding was lawful. Taken to the nation's highest judicial tribunal, the members of that body unanimously decided that Tumey did not have a fair hearing by a tribunal having jurisdiction in his case, and the Ohio courts were reversed and the matter remanded. In a word, the federal supreme court found that Tumey had been the victim of a transgression by the Ohio courts of the amendment to the constitution of the United States which forbids the several states to deprive any person of life, libery or property without due process of law.

So far as the enforcement of the liquor law is concerned, the decision will have little effect. In this state the general assembly is already at work on a measure to place mayors on a salary basis entirely and to make other provision to meet the decision. It will not have any marked permanent effect on liquor law enforcement save to put such enforcement upon a decent and lawful basis, but it will have a marked effect on courts and raiders who have been active not so much to enforce prohibition as to enrich themselves—such courts and arresting officers as become lawbreakers themselves that they may ensnare their victims.

This paper has long been a champion of temperance. We are committed to that cause, but we have never been able to approve of the high-handed, black-jacking methods utilized by many courts and the raiders working out of them. We are therefore very glad that hereafter the prohibition law is to be enforced with respect for justice and decency, and that this same course must also be followed in the handling of alleged violations of our traffic laws.

To us the wonder is that the pernicious fee system which has so long been in vogue in the courts of mayors and justices was not sooner questioned and carried up to our highest court for final decision. The idea that an alleged offender could get justice before a court which is financially interested in the conviction of such alleged offender is an absurdity on its face. Exceptions to the rule that convictions were inevitable before such courts were so comparatively few as to be negligible.

The United States supreme court by its decision has maintained the proud position it has long held as the one branch of the government which is ever and always the bulwark protecting the rights and liberties of the people.

The Mellett case up in Canton is another to show that "murder will out." Sooner or later somebody is going to "talk."

There was a time when it was assumed that a president took a summer vacation for the purpose of rest and recreation, but, judging by the stories of the big city newswriters, the chief purpose of a presidential vacation in this day and age is purely political.

A sweeping Republican victory in 1928 is predicted by Charles D. Hilles. Now if the head of the Democratic claim department will get busy, we may assume that the election is just as good as settled.

Still, if the South doesn't pay any more attention to the United States supreme court's decision in the Texas case than it does to other laws of the country relating to the right of suffrage, we can't see what difference the decision is going to make in primaries down there.

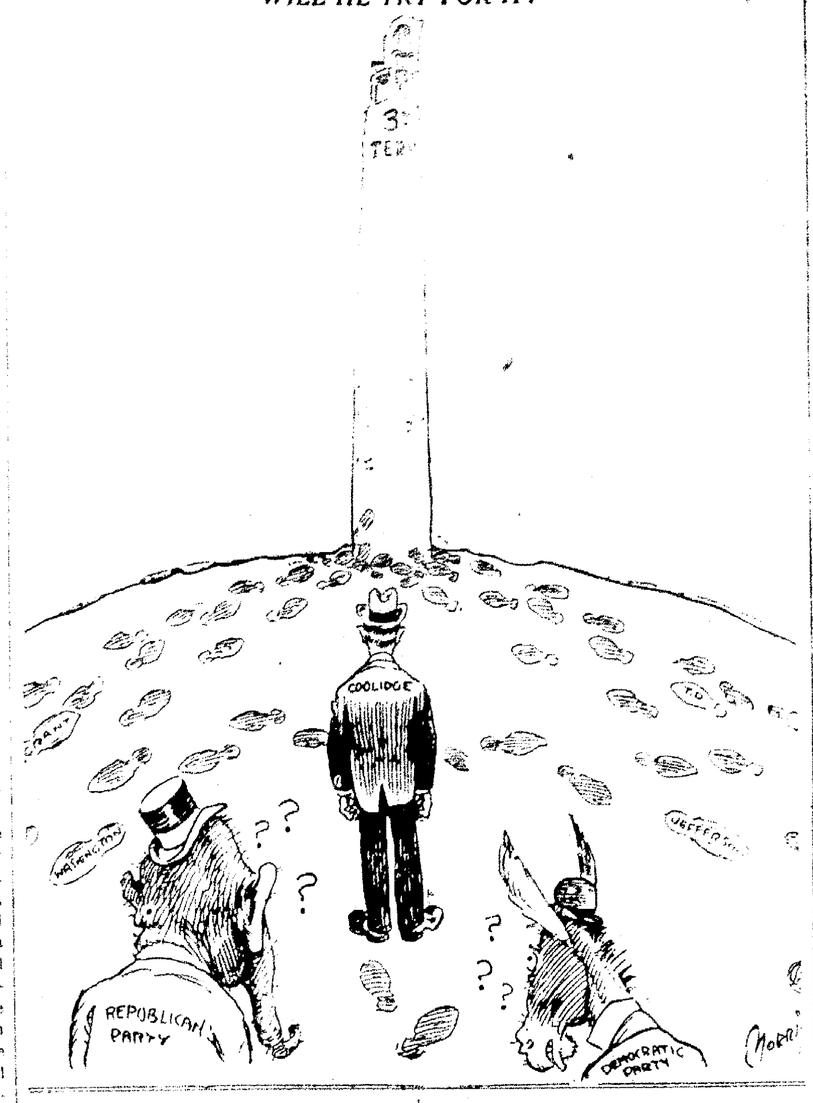
The constitution is the target for a lot of criticism by the pink tea and "Smart Alec" elements of the college world, but for all that the country as a whole seems to be pretty well satisfied with it.

There's some reason in Mr. Upshaw's view that prohibition will be a success by 1940. By that time all those given to drinking the Volstead stuff, it is reasonable to figure, should be pretty thoroughly dead.

It's a bit hard to reconcile the statement that Prime Cal's "Status Quo" week has been a remarkable great success with the further statement that the city's theaters, restaurants, ice cream parlors and soda fountains have been doing rushing businesses. It's the same old story. You can get statistics to prove almost anything.

A New Yorker, not liking the way his attorney handled his case, pulled a gun and took three shots at him. If this becomes epidemic, practicing law will have to be added to the list of hazardous occupations.

WILL HE TRY FOR IT?



Irritation Arising from Drugs.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

More delicate than the veneer of the finest furniture is the human skin. It should be treated with respect, and given such care, at least as a good housekeeper gives her choice furniture.

Of course the skin is more commonly disfigured from disturbance from within than it is from abuse directly applied. But there are certain causes which are likely to produce disturbances in some supersensitive skins.

The use of adhesive plaster may greatly irritate the skin. Fortunately there are few persons susceptible to this effect, but when the peculiarity exists the plaster may cause a lot of trouble.

A recently printed article in a medical journal places the number of susceptible persons at one in a hundred. Personally, I am sensitive to the effects of adhesive plaster, but it does not cause immediate trouble. It is only after two or three days application that the skin gets sore.

But there are occasional persons who get rashes and even blisters within a few hours of the use of the adhesive. In all such cases some other means must be found to apply the treatment.

One time I was making arrangements with a patient who was to have an operation. He worried me about the poisonous effect upon his skin of carbolic acid. "I beg of you," he said, "not to permit the hospital people to 'carbolize' the bed."

It used to be common practice to wash the iron beds with a very weak solution of carbolic acid. This was done for the purpose of cleansing and disinfecting the cot.

It so happened that this patient was put in a bed which had been so treated. When I went to see him next day his entire body was broken out in a rash. The operation had to be postponed a few days.

Iodine is another common application to the skin which is irritating to some persons. Before applying this drug it is well to inquire about its effects if it has been used before.

The uncomfortable symptoms I have mentioned are not serious. They quickly disappear, but it is a good thing to know that sticking plaster, carbolic acid, iodine and perhaps other substances are capable of producing real irritation of the skin. Then you will not be frightened if you observe or experience this effect.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Says Dr. Harry M. Winston, president of Lawrence college: "A few fundamentals mastered, a memory disciplined to retentiveness, a brain trained by an inquiring spirit, a character anchored to Christian principles—these are the essentials of Christian education."

Now what he says about a brain trained by an inquiring spirit. It's the curious about life and people, to ask questions that are too deep for answering, to reflect, to wonder, to know where to look for the things you want to know—these are marks of education. It isn't so much acquaintance of what you know. It's more a matter of knowing where to find out.

Beware of losing the ability to be shocked. This reacts in two ways to the hard facts of the world—either you deliberately become hard proof or little by little the sensitive nature of your life and character changes into what we call a hard shell. It cuts you off from contact with the world and thus destroys your usefulness. When your sensitiveness is gone you are out of touch with human need.

Beware of accepting the second best. The world is afflicted with the spirit of "getting by." When a friend dies suddenly it seems a tragedy. It is not as great a tragedy as when we see him linger for months in a slow death, when we see the light fade from his eye. When a man goes down in a sudden business storm it is tragedy of business. When a man fails in any of life's great undertakings it is sad. But when he fades from usefulness into uselessness, from a source of happiness to others to a source of doubt and unhappiness, little by little, almost imperceptibly, by reason of always being satisfied with the second best, it is the great tragedy.

Beware of seeking a change of circumstances instead of a change of self. We are not meant to run away, to escape from life. The test of living, the worth-whileness of living is not to live easily, but to live usefully—to mean something to somebody. That is about all we can do.

Vagrant Verse.

CYCLES OF THE GODS.

Toward flaming pits of sunset sky
The broken gods go riding by.

They pass, in dented mail arrayed,
A sad and drooping cavalcade.

The velvet twilight fails to calm
Their grieving souls with dusk-like balm.

For night, for night, they know is near
To scourge their hearts with whips of fear.

The old gods go, as men forget,
Toward their predestined oubliette.

And new gods come with rush and shout
To see the wan procession out.

But what is this that shakes the air?
A trumpet blast that routs despair.

The old gods wheel before they fall
To sound a last defiant call:

"We shall return, we shall return.
When temples crash and new shrines burn.

"Like us our brothers then will wend
Toward shadow goals where cycles end.

"And when they leave the haunts of men,
We'll come again, we'll come again."

Toward sunset gulfs of red and brown
The proud old gods go riding down.

A. The wild duck and the homing pigeon are credited with speeds of more than sixty miles an hour.

Q. Why is the date set as 580 A. D. that Latin ceased to be a spoken language? H. B.

A. In his "History of the Later Roman Empire" J. B. Bury says that in the year 400 when Gaul and Spain were still Roman, the Greek-speaking people in the empire were still in a minority and the official language of the empire was still purely Latin. By the year 500 when not only Gaul and Spain, but Africa had been lost, the empire was a realm of Hellenic speech, with the exception of Illyricum, and though Latin still was the official language, the emperors often issued their constitutions in Greek. Justinian, although Latin was his native tongue, issued most of his constitutions in Greek. By the end of the sixth century Latin had ceased to be the official tongue, the actual year of its abolition being 580.

Q. What can be done to cottonwood trees to prevent the cotton from forming? C. B. N.

A. Dr. W. H. Long, of Albuquerque, New Mexico, says that experiments have shown that the problem can be solved by the use of a solution of lime and iron. A one per cent. solution usually kills the blossoms. The spraying should be done between the time the catkins appear and the leaves unfold—about a period of three weeks. It is only the female or pistillate tree that need be treated. It can be distinguished by its greenish bloom. The male, or staminate tree, has a purplish bloom.

Q. Is there any difference between graham flour and whole wheat? J. H. G.

A. The difference between whole wheat flour and graham flour is that there is less coarse bran in the so-called whole wheat flour than in the graham. Alexander Graham was the first to advocate milling the entire wheat adding nothing to it and subtracting nothing from it. In some mills the whole wheat flour is a product of the whole wheat put through a process to take out the coarsest bran.

At the edge of the swan lake an aged man comes every agreeable morning after sun up to read from the Talmud. On the bridle path around 5 o'clock is the actor with the red vest as a part of his costume. Also the benches of the Mall may be found figures seen there year after year and there is the Japanese who visits the menagerie daily—a custom of his for five years. He seems entranced by the buffalo. Then there are the walkers around the gravel path of the reservoir promenade. There are the early morning walkers who used to be joined frequently by Andrew Carnegie, the noon walkers, most employes of Fifth avenue stores and those who walk at dusk. The latter are chiefly the owners of the Central park and upper Fifth avenue apartment houses. There are many, too, who enjoy moonlight walking—especially the romantically inclined.

* * *

Love-making in Central park is not a turtle dove cooing under the thin cool sliver of a crescent moon. Recently I sat on a bench with my dog, admiring the beauty of a night. A pair of young lovers, hand in hand, strolled up and occupied a neighboring bench. There seemed to be many whispered confidences and finally her voice broke the stillness sharply with: "That's a lot of a hay wire. You get a job and then you can talk about marriage."

* * *

Music critics are popularly supposed to be aesthetically high-brow with flowing ties and a portic pallor. I know of one who is said to have gone tripping from the opera to the newsroom announcing he was "drunk with rhythm." Most of them I have noticed are about as corpuscled and virile as prize fight writers and almost as hard-boiled. It is a blase critic often enjoying the material husks as much as the ordinary scribbler. A shining example is James Huneker.—Copyright, 1927.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Monday.

Archie Roosevelt, who had been critically ill in the White House, was declared out of danger.

Mrs. Avery Crabb was quite ill of the grip.

It was stated that Lord Aberdeen had expended $150,000 to prove that Camille Clifford, the show girl bride of his son, Henry Lindhurst Bruce, was formerly a housemaid. The marriage of Camille and Bruce created a sensation on both sides of the Atlantic.

Mrs. G. L. Coleman, a wealthy member of Zion City, claimed an angel of the Lord had visited her, and she rather held out that this meant she was to succeed the late Alexander Dowie as leader in Zion City.

Sir Thomas Lipton had to pay taxes assessed at $350,000 on his property in Chicago.

Miss Nellie Doty was the guest of friends in Chicago.

The florist shop of F. E. Blake and Son was burglarized and $25 carried away.

A choral union was organized by members of the German M. E. church, with L. Arn as director.

Youngstown organized a stock company to hold its place in the O.-P. league.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Ervin, of north Greenwood street.

Mrs. James DeWolfe, of Toledo, was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. T. B. Allen, of East Center street.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

There was an old guy that had a lot of dough, and he was stingy. He never spent any money, and his relatives didn't like him. Of course. He was a bachelor, and the relatives were always saying that since he hadn't anybody to leave his dough to except nieces and nephews and cousins, he might as well [illegible] the world up a little by spending a bit. Also besides, it was common talk that the old groucher had made a will leaving everything to his favorite niece, Ellen.

One day Ellen won a scholarship at school and a friend of the family went to the rich uncle and said: "That's a smart niece you have, Mr. Tite."

"Yep, I reckon she is."

"She's just done honor to the family."

"Yep."

"Say now, look here, Mr. Tite, why don't you do something today to make that niece of yours happy? She deserves it."

"Yep, I reckon she does. All right, I'll make her happy. I'll go to bed and pretend I'm awful sick."—Copyright, 1927.

Visit Kent

C. E. Sifrit, coal accountant, Kent Division, Erie Railroad, was in Kent yesterday on company's business.

Nearing Half Century

Charles Morrison, general agent of the Erie at Toledo and years ago employed in Marion offices, has almost completed half a century in the service of that railroad. The lure that holds hundreds of thousands of men to their railroad jobs is back of the story of his service.

Mr. Morrison hired out as a laborer on the Erie Railroad at Urbana in 1877. From laborer to baggageman and warehouse man and then to billing clerk and freight transfer foreman is the record of his service at Urbana.

In 1883 he was transferred to this city, in charge of the Erie freight transfer. He is well remembered by many of the old-timers on the road here. He held various positions in the freight house here for almost 10 years.

Seventeen years ago, Mr. Morrison went to Toledo as commercial agent of the Erie. Four years ago he became general agent of the road there.

Stief in Tourney

Kerensky in U. S.

Alexander Kerensky, who in 1917, after the Romanoffs had been overthrown, became provisional president and prime minister of the Russian republic, is photographed as he sees New York for the first time. He is a foe of the Soviet government.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruity laxative for stomach, liver, bowels

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm children and they love it

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and feverish. See if tongue is coated, this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Fig Syrup" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the sour, gassy, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, fruity laxative", and it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing". Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup", then see that it is made by "The California Fig Syrup Company."

ARMY ADOPTS NEW PLAN FOR BUYING SOFT COAL

Washington, Mar. 11—When the army buys bituminous coal in the future it is going to make sure that it gets coal and nothing else.

Hoping to eliminate the disputes, some of which have led to litigation in the past, over the quality of coal delivered under contract, the Quartermaster-General has adopted a new policy to govern bituminous purchases. Advertisements hereafter will include detailed technical specifications of the coal wanted and not leave this important matter to the judgment of the contractors as has been done in the past.

In order to guarantee the quality of coal even further the government has collected a file of complete analyses of coal produced in all the fields and in the principal mines of the country, and in the future dealers and contractors will be required to state from what particular mine they propose to make deliveries. Thus the Quartermaster-General hopes to reduce to a minimum the chances of receiving coal of inferior grades.

POLISH FASCIST GROUPS NOW UNDER ONE HEAD

Warsaw, Mar. 11—The Fascisti organizations scattered throughout Poland have been formed into a single group headed by Roman Dmowski, who was formerly a leader of the Poles against Russian domination of his country. The new organization is called "The Champions of Poland" and according to Dmowski will not interfere with the government of Marshal Pilsudski as long as the present status is maintained. If, however, the present government falls or attacks the Fascisti, he warns that his party will take over the government "for the good of Poland."

Dmowski declares his party has ready a national program that will win the support of a majority of the Poles.

... big shoulder roused me. ... must get back to Geneva," ... said the Commissioner. ... Krauser will conduct those ... to St. Antoine. We will consider our next step as we go."

I assented briefly. Now that the shock of the discovery was passed, my brain was at work again, busy with attempting to find a way to rescue Claymole before it was too late.

We set off again up the ravine towards the road. The moon was higher now, and in its faint light the columns of the viaduct showed like lean stone fingers pointing to the stars. We scrambled up slowly, for the way was very steep, the prisoners and their guards following in our wake. When we were still some twenty yards from the top I heard a sharp whirring sound, and a moment later the noise of a big engine starting to life.

"What's that?" I said to the Commissioner.

"I don't know," he answered. "Quick, we must find out."

He hastened his stride, and in a few minutes we were standing panting and breathless on the top of the ravine at the edge of the road. The Commissioner strained his eyes through the darkness, and I heard unmistakably the sound of a car in the direction of the viaduct.

"Look," cried the Commissioner.

I saw the flash of headlights and the dim outline of a car on the viaduct high up against the sky. The headlights flashed on and off, and it was gone in a second, swallowed up in the blackness of the night. Evidently the chauffeur was in haste, for the distant purr of the engine changed to a dull roar as he cut out the exhaust.

My attention returned to the Commissioner at my side. He was swearing copiously to himself, but still I did not understand what had happened.

"The Japanese chauffeur," he exclaimed. "Now d'un nom! I left him in his car, and that fool Georges has let him go."

"What do you mean?" I exclaimed. "The man was handcuffed."

"God knows!" cried the Commissioner, "but he's got away somehow. Where's the car?"

I looked up and down the road, a faint broad ribbon of dull gray against the surrounding gloom. There was no car to be seen, but something black lay huddled on the ground. We approached it and the Commissioner flashed his torch. Crumped up was the body of a gendarme in uniform. The Commissioner bent over and touched him on the shoulder, but he did not move. He turned the light on to his face.

"It's Georges," he muttered.

"Is he badly hurt?"

The Commissioner examined him in silence and then said: "He's still breathing, but he's had a nasty blow," and he pointed to the neck, on which a dull, livid bruise was beginning to form. "I know that trick," he continued. "He was struck on the carotid artery with the side of the hand. It's a Japanese trick and I've known it to kill a man. Help me."

He bent down and we removed the gendarme to the border of the road.

My foot, in doing so, struck something hard, and after depositing the gendarme, I went back to see what it was. At my feet lay a pair of handcuffs. I picked them up and gave them to the Commissioner.

"The devil!" he exclaimed. "He must have slipped his bracelets. These Japanese are marvelous."

By this time several more detectives had appeared from the ravine. The Commissioner told them to attend to Georges and then follow us to Cartigny. Having given his orders, we set off ourselves at a run.

"What are you going to do?" I panted, as we ran abreast.

"Telephone to La Plaine," he said. "It's the next village down the road. They may just be able to stop him there if we're quick, but I doubt it."

A few minutes' hard running brought us to the village which we had left but a short half hour before. Two plainclothes men were still seated at the cafe beneath the vine trellis.

"The telephone," gasped the Commissioner. "Put me through to La Plaine."

They had evidently been shot up, for they rose clumsily to their feet and one of them overturned his wine.

"Quick, you fools!" said the Commissioner impatiently. "It's urgent."

One of them lumbered into the house, and I heard the telephone bell ringing.

A moment later there came a voice: "You're through, Monsieur le Commissaire."

The Commissioner dashed into the cafe and disappeared, and I caught snatches of the conversation from where I stood.

"Yes, yes. It's Monsieur le Commissaire Dubois. Yes— stop all cars passing through your village immediately. Look for a big closed six-seater Peugeot, probably running without lights. What's that? Good! I'll hold the line."

There was silence for a couple of minutes, then the Commissioner's voice took up the conversation once more.

"Yes, yes. Dubois speaking. Just now, did you say—not two minutes ago? Is he badly hurt. Very well, sergeant—not your fault. We may have him yet."

I heard the click of the receiver replaced, and the next instant he was with us.

"St. Antoine, the ancient prison in the center of the old city, in which Luchent, the murderer of the Empress Elizabeth, wife of Franz Joseph, languished till he died.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary Appears as a Silly Girl

"I'M all set now, Auntie Madge," Mary said as she turned from Lillian's dressing table in seeming oblivion to the startling change she had made in her appearance with rouge and lipstick. "And do tell me what kind of egg this Noel Verstizen is? By the way, isn't he the one that—" she stopped in apparent confusion, and I finished the sentence for her.

"That you have heard the stories about," I said, careful not to mention Jack Loshe's name. "Yes, but I hope you're not going to let that fact prejudice you against him. He really is a most charming chap."

"Indeed, I'm not," she returned. "I'm prepared to like him very much, if he can stand this frog voice of mine. I hope he's talkative and likes a good listener, for I sure can't throw much conversation tonight."

"I never saw a man yet who didn't like a good listener, Mary," Lillian smiled, and then she led the way into the living-room, pausing only to tell Mary that she already had informed Noel of her work with his father.

I saw Noel Verstizen give a distinct start when he caught sight of Mary, and I did not wonder at his astonishment. I could imagine the description Lillian had given him of Mary's delicate loveliness, of her melodious voice, of the rare grace of her movements and of the brilliant mentality and dramatic fire which was hers. Instead he was being introduced to a croaking, painted little hoyden who giggled inanely, and who appeared to have been robbed of all grace and spontaneity by her embarrassment at meeting a good looking young man.

She was positively awkward in her movements, and I noticed Dicky look sharply at her, annoyance and distaste in his glance. I was glad that we had only a few minutes in Lillian's rather [illegible] room before a waiter announced dinner at a room upon the same floor, over which my father presided with pleasure.

"It takes me back," he said, surveying the ornate, old fashioned appointments of the room, and the heavy furniture and carpets which new styles failed yet showed that even a generation was a long time in fashion's last word in luxury. "I've eaten here many a time in the old days. I'd like to know if it was still in existence."

I then gave him the explanation of the [illegible] sentimental feeling for the private dining room, but even I had not heard it before, I would have given scant attention. All my powers of observation were focused on Mary and Noel Verstizen, of course with the accompanying necessity of [illegible] them to notice that I was watching them.

I had not taken me many minutes to realize that despite the almost complete transformation which Mary's school girl embarrassment at meeting Noel Verstizen had effected in her the gifted young student was undeniably attracted by her. He paid only the attention to the rest of us which politeness demanded, but he scarcely took his eyes from her face while the phrase, "brains on every wood" appeared to have been invented especially for her.

But I could have shaken my host's [illegible] with a good grace as I listened to her giggles and her inane remarks and watched the awkward, jerky little movements of her head and hands as she talked. I had seen the same exhibition in other girls of her age many times during my years of high school teaching. It was nothing out of the ordinary, but it was not what I expected from Dicky's gifted hostess's niece. Copyright, 1927

Recipes for New and Novel Dishes; Household Ideas and Suggestions

Following is a menu for a crowd of hungry young people. Ordinarily one would not include potatoes and macaroni in the same menu. Both are starchy. Hungry young people, however, can digest things that more delicate appetites must avoid. And possibly some of the crowd would not like potatoes and prefer the macaroni. It is always well to have variety when serving a number of people.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Creamed Onions—Cook onions quickly, leaving them whole. Salt and pepper after draining, dress with plain cream. Serve at once.

Cake.—Two cups granulated sugar, one-half cup butter or substitute, one cup milk, one-quarter teaspoon salt, flavor to taste; about three and one-half to four cups flour, about three and one half or four teaspoons baking powder. This will make two good size cakes. Make one layer and frost it with chocolate icing for this meal and put raisins in the other and bake in loaf for following day.

Macaroni and Tomatoes — Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender, rinse in cold water. Arrange in layers in buttered baking dish with alternate layers of seasoned, cooked tomatoes. Sprinkle breadcrumbs on top and cook in oven for half an hour. Cheese added to this dish makes it hearty enough for a one-dish meal.

Sewer Inspection Service Likely Here in Compliance With State Health Order

Plans for Remedying Situation To Be Considered by Members of City Council; Appointment of Inspector Provided in Ordinance Before Municipal Legislative Body

Plans for remedying local sewer conditions in compliance with official orders which have been received from the State Department of Health are to be considered soon by members of City Council and it is indicated that establishment of a municipal sewer inspection service is likely to be an outcome of the deliberations.

An ordinance providing for appointment of a sewer inspector here and also containing rules governing sewer construction which he would be expected to enforce was submitted to council several weeks ago but has never been acted upon. When investigation showed that the city will not be very plentifully supplied with operating funds during 1927 council decided that the proposed new sewer inspection service could not be financed until 1928 at the earliest.

New Developments

Recent developments in the sewer situation appear to have changed the situation however, and create the probability that a sewer inspection department may be inaugurated this year in spite of any financial limitations which may exist.

"There is such a thing as false economy, and I believe that attempting to keep down expenses in connection with this sewer situation is an example," H. E. Prettyman, chairman of the council finance committee stated yesterday.

Mr. Prettyman indicated that he favors adoption of the sewer inspection ordinance as the best and most practicable step toward correcting the conditions against which the State Department of Health has protested.

Source of Trouble

The sewer trouble is due principally to investigations have shown, to cross connections throughout practically the sanitary and storm water systems, which are intended to be absolutely separate and distinct.

Through many years of Marion's growth and development practically ever since the first sewer was laid here, sanitary drains have been connected with storm water lines and storm water drains with sanitary lines. It appears that plumbers doing the work have made a practice of connecting up with the pipes that were nearest and most convenient, regardless of whether the pipes were a part of the right sewer system.

Serious Situation

Just how many of these improper connections exist is a matter of conjecture but it is known definitely that the number is so large that a serious situation has resulted.

Two dangerous conditions have resulted. One exists in streams west of the city into which the local sewer system empties. Raw sewage passing through the storm water sewers instead of the sanitary lines and the sewage treatment plant, flows into these streams, creating a situation regarded as menacing to public health.

On the other hand, storm water drains improperly connected up with the sanitary system cause the sewage treatment works to become overtaxed when ever there is a heavy rain. This creates an ever present danger of damage to the sewage plant, which the city built at the cost of several hundred thousand dollars, officials say.

The State Department of Health wrote several letters to council requesting that corrective steps be taken but got no response. Then at the last City Council meeting there appeared R. C. Sweeney of Columbus, assistant engineer of the State Department of Health, with a polite but firm demand that action be taken as soon as possible.

"It is immaterial to the state what course the city of Marion takes to remedy this condition, just so the work is done and accomplishes results," Mr. Sweeney said. He said that the state will wait a "reasonable length of time" for the city to act.

Plan Meeting

Ralph B. Good, chairman of the council sewer committee, stated yesterday that the committee would probably meet in the near future to consider a plan of procedure.

As the cross sewer connections, which have caused the trouble, are due largely to lack of adequate supervision, it is likely that employment of a city sewer inspector as provided by the pending ordinance will be adopted. This official, according to present plans, would have charge of the rather formidable task of locating and eliminating all present cross connections as well as preventing any from being made in the future.

Councilman Prettyman is of the opinion that by charging for permits issued by the inspector and for other services performed by him, the department would be self-sustaining.

-o- The New Book -o-

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

ELLIS of the old regime and the new are seen by the reader of "Ladies and Gentlemen" by Cobb, just been supplied with a new appellation known as "Ladies and Gentlemen" from the publishers, Doubleday Doran & Co., Inc.

Cobb has a new package for his well known wares, although traces of a new product have also been used to add to its popularity. He has retained a number of features that are distinctly Cobb and readers will be glad to get them once more. So when we find he that often when reading a Cobb narrative, we are astounded to suddenly run across through a sudden startling deed and saying something thrilling deed and saying special thanking there things which we had thought our own peculiar secret. His characters are all human all interesting, whether humorous or serious, and oftentimes invested with just enough of the unusual to make them wholly absorbing.

In "Ladies and Gentlemen" we find all manner of character from the social climber, the newly rich, and the flapper to the cowboy and even the gentle loveable old Civil War veteran, clinging to his memories of bygone days.

• • •

ONE of the most striking of the stories, having the slight ironical twist characteristic of an O. Henry story, and now and then, of his itself, is the one entitled, "Three Wise Men of the East Side."

The story concerns three men, all crooks at heart, but each of a different nature in life, a murderer, his lawyer and a prison guard. The murderer, who shrinks not from death itself but from electrocution, bribes the others to aid him in obtaining poison which he may take the moment his hour of punishment has come. The plan, however, is unsuccessful, his cohorts having doublecrossed him. After his death, when his fellow-schemer, the lawyer, receives his reward, he finds that, he in turn has been doublecrossed by the dead murderer. The money which he is forced to pay the guard for his part in the plan, is counterfeit.

One of the most amusing stories of the entire group is "The Order of the Bath" in which a designing Englishman deludes an American family whose eyes are blinded by love of prestige and position, and incidentally causes a near riot in the same American kitchen when the ideas of the truly English butler, engaged for the occasion, and the wholesome Irish maid, conflict as far as said English is concerned.

• • •

AN undertone of sentiment characterizes the first story in the book, "A Lady and a Gentleman," in which a foreign convict of Civil War era is spending a Confederate Army reunion in Atlanta, entertained at the home of a woman of loose morals whose "he makes kindness and generosity during his bad" ... Another story of the old gentlemen of the south is "War of the Old South," a story in which reminiscences of the south are used as the theme upon which to build Rupert Jewson whom an unusual friendship develops.

"Dan of Friendship" is the tale of a man whose fondness for liquor is the ruining fault to his downfall. While on a camping trip he is a party to a severe earthquake which might easily have killed him. His escape serves as an opportunity for him to leave his home, debts and nagging wife, and under an assumed name, start life anew. His fondness for "Dan of everything" is his downfall however since he extracts of fake teeth left behind upon a rock upturned by the same earthquake in which he was supposedly killed, leads to the belief that he has run away. No definite charge can be placed against him when caught however except for the fact that his desire for "Dan of everything" has finally caused him to commit bigamy.

THE remaining stories, all of which are equally good and quite as entertaining are "Killed with Kindness", "Peace on Earth," an ironical story of a family who attempt to abolish the present day idea of Christmas for the one of olden times, irrespective of the attitude of their fellowmen; "How to Choke a Cat Without Using Butter," in which the husband and father of a social-climbing family accomplices that for which his family have long strived by using what at best appears to be the wrong method but when successful demonstrates the fact that there is "more than one way of doing things."

"Good Sam" is the story of a man with good intentions, a sort of "Helpful Henry" always attempting to do someone good and always leaving them in worse plight than they were before he offered assistance. Although the theme is somewhat hackneyed the story is diverting and is undoubtedly one of Cobb's funniest.

"A Close Shave" is a story intense with suspense and somewhat similar to "Three Wise Men of the East Side." In "The Cowboy, the Lady and Her Pa" a slangy flapper traveling in the west with her wealthy but unestablished parents, falls in love with a cowboy. But when her father persuades that same rustic hero to "doll up" in flashy and eastern clothes her love flees and so does the family back to their native eastern haunts.

"Ladies and Gentlemen," and in fact all Cobb stories, convince us of the undenying good in humanity in general show us the humor of everyday life and center us as a degree for more entertaining reading. Cobb is a native of Old Judge Priest, "Back Home," "Speaking of Operations" and many famous stories.

"CONGAU" BY HARRY HERVEY

In "Congau" by Harry Hervey, recently published by Boni & Liveright Book Corporation, Harry Hervey has a setting that succeeded in arousing the reader interest. After reading a score of modern novels of England and statesmen, American prohibitionists and reformers, Fresco officers and drunken sailors one is in a frame of mind to enjoy a novel laid in Indo China and concerned with a young woman native of that country, head fed after a tropical fashion native to a degree and yet imbued with a desire to gain the homage and recognition of the French to be she her colonial powers and governors.

She succeeds in a sense surrounding herself with luxuries and devotion if not respect, by becoming the temporary wife of divers continental Europeans.

Although the book may be mentioned for its unusual theme the outspoken language and the implications made by Mr. Hervey in his recent book, will doom it, at least, to a limited and short lived popularity.

Mr. Hervey is an amateur archaeologist and a student of the Far East and for that reason we feel his books to be accurate portrayals of the character of a half-civilized people and an only too true picture of the effect of the tropical country on the English, French and American. Mr. Hervey will publish through the Cosmopolitan Co., a travel book which will throw considerable light on the present complex situation existing in China, early next fall.

PRINTER IS QUESTIONED IN MURDER CONNECTION

Arrest Follows All Night Session Held in Toledo Police Headquarters

Toledo, Mar. 11—Julius W. Weist, proprietor of the J. W. Weist Printing Co., was arrested today on a temporary charge of carrying concealed weapons, after being questioned for several hours in connection with the brutal murder of Lillian Croy, Toledo school teacher, who was attacked, then clubbed to death here last October.

Weist was also held for questioning at that time, but never placed under arrest, the police saying they were satisfied with his alibi.

Weist mysteriously failed to come home last night after leaving his printing establishment at 4 p. m. Thursday. His wife and brother-in-law notified police early this morning of his disappearance and later his car was found parked near the safety building. It was then learned from high police officials that Weist had been held in police headquarters all night, being questioned regarding the Croy murder. His arrest on the concealed weapon charge followed.

Miss Croy was beaten to death during the "Toledo clubber reign of terror."

FIRST CANTONESE SALLY ON SUNKIANG THWARTED

Long Expected Battle in Yishing Sector in Full Progress

Shanghai, Mar. 11—The Cantonese have opened a drive against Sunkiang and have been forced back in their first rally.

The long expected battle in the Yishing sector for Sunkiang and also in the Taiping Chen region of Anhwei now appears to be in full movement, with all reports here indicating that the Cantonese have had to give some ground.

The first Nationalist thrust at the Sunkiang was thwarted when scouts spotted 200 bandmen of Nationalist troops, dressed as civilians, proceeding to the rear. The Shanghai force opened a heavy fire and the Nationalists were forced to retire.

United States Consul Lockhart at Hankow, acting on instructions from Washington, today lodged an official protest with the Nationalist government against the destruction of American missionary property at Wuhu yesterday by Nationalist soldiers and civilians. The consul demanded immediate evacuation of the property concerned by the Nationalist military.

MAY RECALL ROACH TO CHECK UP MAZER STORY

Chicago "Clean-Up" Attorney Would Aid Mayor Swarts in Investigation

Canton, Mar. 11—Possibility that Joseph R. Roach, Chicago "clean-up attorney," might be recalled to Canton to aid Mayor Stanford M. Swarts' investigation into Louis Mazer's allegations regarding a police official, in connection with the Don R. Mellet murder, loomed here today.

Mazer was the third man indicted for the murder of Mellett, Canton publisher, here last July. His trial was originally scheduled for Mar. 16 but it has now been promised immunity for having turned state's evidence.

In his story, made public last Tuesday, Mazer said he and Floyd Streitberger, former Canton detective, and fourth man indicted for alleged complicity in the crime, had obtained Mellett's home address from a present member of the Canton police force.

Roach was brought here shortly after the murder, by Mayor Swarts and the Canton Daily News. He obtained evidence which resulted in an affidavit charging Mazer with murder. On this action, it is said, the entire plot now unfolding, is hinged.

Immediately following the filing of the affidavit against Mazer, Chief of Police S. A. Lengel and Detective Streitenberger were ousted, among others, from service, and several detectives were demoted after they were charged by city officials with associating with criminals, and incompetency.

SECRETARY HITS POLICY OF U. S. IN NICARAGUA

Sistering Criticism of State Department Made by Official at Legation

Washington, Mar. 11—A flickering ... to the state department's pub- ... policies in Nicaragua as a ... commercial ... recently re- ... to the department from Law- ... Dennis, secretary of the legation ... Nicaragua, became known today.

Incompetence, extravagant waste of government funds, doling out of worthless information, a superstitious attitude toward newspapermen are among the accusations leveled at the department.

Although refusing to comment on the virulent assault, officials of the foreign services are reported to be less concerned over these charges than they are over the fact that Dennis possesses an important diplomatic document, a step given highly embarrassing to the department if it were made public. This document, which Dennis was instructed to destroy, is alleged to contain written instructions covering the Nicaraguan situation that are directly opposed to the policy of the government, as officially announced here.

Recently Resigned

Dennis resigned some time ago from his post in Nicaragua, but his resignation was refused. Ten days ago it was stated that he would be given an important place in the department if he would reconsider his resignation. Yesterday it was said at the department that the resignation had been withdrawn.

Five newspaper correspondents stationed in Nicaragua, added other complaints to the Dennis charges, asserting that officials have dismissed them with lordly gestures when they sought answers to important international questions.

Dennis asserted that a "white-washed" clique kept up in the department is primarily responsible for this latter state of affairs.

What action will be taken in the Dennis case when he returns early next month could not be ascertained. Although it is expected that his reported criticisms will make his dismissal imperative.

MARION COUNTY FARMERS GET BORER NOTICES

Instructions Sent Out by Charles V. Truax, Agricultural Director

Instructions to farmers within the area of Marion County under quarantine for the corn borer are going out from the office of Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax, giving directions for the destruction of all corn stubble and cobs.

State agents in the quarantine area are also being given instructions in their part of the campaign under way to curb, if not wipe out, the pest that is endangering the corn crop of the state.

Truax has placed a deadline for the work which is hoped will bring relief from the activities of the corn borer in Ohio this year. State and federal regulations require that the work of destroying all corn stubble and cobs on farms within the quarantine must be completed by May 1, 1927. The statement from Truax governing the destruction of corn stalks and cobs and the compensation for the work reads:

Truax Statement

"Farmers who do this work in a satisfactory manner and dispose of all stalks and cobs on the farm will be compensated by the federal government at a rate not exceeding $2 per acre. It is believed that this amount will fully cover the cost of extra labor involved in this method of controlling and suppressing the European corn borer.

Instructions to the farmers are being broadcast by Truax to inform them of the best methods of killing the corn borer.

Nine townships, comprising the two northern tiers of townships of the county, lie within the quarantine area of the state. The farmers of these townships are being given directions for the destruction of the corn borer by Truax.

"Farmers in the territory infested with the European corn borer should start at once the work of poling down, raking up and burning all corn stalks and long stubble in fields that are to be seeded to oats, without plowing," Truax directs. "The corn stalks and stubble harbor the living borers or worms, and if left on the surface of the field, these larvae hatch and reinfest surrounding territory. Hence, it is apparent that any intensive clean up campaign that does not dispose of all corn stalks and long stubble on the surface of the ground will be ineffective so far as results are concerned. This method of clean up is a requirement of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and will be strictly enforced. The alternative is to plow the stalks under completely so none appear on the surface of the ground after seeding.

"In this process the borers come to the surface of the ground and are destroyed. Stalks can be effectively poled down with poles, pieces of lumber, or steel rails."

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

To Neutralize Acidity and Fermentation, Prevents Indigestion, Sour Gassy Stomach

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and know these things will not cure them, trouble in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, use for the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia, not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, dizziness, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.—Adv.

Hundreds of local citizens have been able to draw bigger wages because they took Pepgen. Such people are now on their jobs, healthy and well, earning dollars and cents instead of incurring expenses on account of sickness.

"He took Pepgen and now he has no more stomach or kidney trouble. He is stronger than he was before. He has a good appetite and can eat what he wants. Nothing hurts him."

If you don't feel well try Pepgen. It has helped others and you may confidently expect it to do the same for you. Sold by Bradley's Drug Store, Marion, Ohio, and other well stocked drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

MARTYR TO PAIN FOR 16 YEARS

Finds relief after spending much money in vain

After spending a great deal of money on medicines without results, a woman who had suffered from a long-standing case of rheumatism, got quick and complete relief by a simple home treatment.

"I have suffered from rheumatism for 16 years and I have spent a great deal of money in trying to get something which would ease the pain," she writes. "I am grateful to say that in Sloan's Liniment I have found instant relief."

Sloan's helps when other remedies fail because Sloan's doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up the bodily forces to throw off the poisons that are causing the pain. Then relief comes as a natural consequence.

So easy, pleasant and clean to use, too. You don't even have to rub it in. Just apply gently, and the medicine brings the relief.

Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunates who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S. S. S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S. S. S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S. S. S. I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S. S. S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me."—Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

Transfer of 40 Mausoleum Crypts for 380-Acre Farm, Livestock Object of Suit

James B. Bolander Brings Action Against I. N. Latchaw in Common Pleas Court; Jury Awards $7,500 Verdict to Erastus Bryson Suing Harding Publishing Co.

Suit to force the transfer of 40 crypts in the mausoleum east of Marion in exchange for a 380 acre farm and livestock in Trumbull County was filed today in Common Pleas Court here.

The suit was filed by James B. Bolander, owner of the farm, against I. N. Latchaw, named as owner of the crypts in the mausoleum.

According to the petition a contract was drawn up on October 13, 1926, between Bolander and Latchaw, through L. C. Worcan, of Marion, agreeing to exchange the 40 crypts for the farm and the livestock, consisting of 27 head of cattle.

Bolander claims that when he came here to turn over the deed to the farm and take ownership of the crypts Latchaw refused to go through with the contract, and still refuses to transfer ownership.

Bolander asks an injunction restraining Latchaw from disposing of the crypts to anyone else, and a court order to compel the transfer.

$7,500 Verdict

Verdict of $7,500 in favor of Erastus Bryson against the Harding Publishing Co. for damages sustained when Bryson was struck by an automobile of the defendant was given by a jury in Common Pleas Court last night.

The jury did not come to an agreement until it had been out nearly two and one-half hours, and the verdict was read before Judge George B. Scofield shortly before eight-thirty last night. The jury retired about six o'clock, after receiving the charge, and Judge Scofield and court attaches and attorneys waited for the verdict.

Bryson sued for $15,000 damages. At the time he was injured Bryson was leading a cow along the Harding Highway, east of the city. One machine, going east, frightened the cow, which pushed Bryon out into the road, and he was hit by the truck, which was following the first machine.

Children pass back their bowls for more because it tastes so good. Let them have all they want. Post's Wheat Meal is one of the most healthful foods you can give to little folks.

Made from whole wheat, the health grain, Post's Wheat Meal, with milk or cream, furnishes vitamins for growth; proteins for body building; minerals for teeth and bone; bran for regularity; and carbohydrates for energy.

And it is convenient to prepare. Put Post's Wheat Meal on to cook and call the family. By the time they are at the table, Post's Wheat Meal is ready to serve. An appetizing, steaming dish, golden as the wheat berry itself. It cooks, ready-to-serve, in two and a half minutes.

Strength of Horse Needed by Senators, Windup Proves

Solons Got Much Sleep 10 Days Before Congress Adjourned

JAMES A. REED

SENATOR REED of Missouri says he managed to put in just 40 minutes of slumber between 11 o'clock on the morning of March 2 and a little after 12 on the morning of March 4.

He was very short on sleep to begin with, at that, and dozed off a bit while sitting in the senate chamber during the various wise cracks Senator George Moses of New Hampshire was delivering at the time. Major Jim Reed cracked! Yet when, three to one, the boys got after him for a fresh oratorical whirl, he fell instantly and automatically into parliamentary fighting position once more, just as a gamy scrapper does in the ring long after, by good rights, he ought to be down and out.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania never shot a wink, but he's nearly 20 years younger than the Missourian, a mite of oil, but tougher than whalebone just the same.

• • •

SENATORS Joe Robinson, Pat Harrison, Walsh of Massachusetts, McNary and Shortridge were others besides Moses and the two Reeds, who got mighty little, if any rest.

It was surprising how most of the veterans stood the gaff. A hard-boiled generation, they looked fresher, on an average, at the contest's end, than the rank and file of their juniors.

Jim Reed even had the pep to give out at belligerent intervals, in the senate lost corridors with a reporter investigating all subjects from the state of the nation to the state of the weather. Jim was in fine fettle, and he was given to understand that he looked it.

• • •

THE senate's sleeping car is fixed on a plan that's quite unlike the berths and bunks provided in the Pullmans.

In Pullman sleepers you are secluded with an occasional companion. You go to bed hours ahead of time, so as to make up for lost sleep. Quite a few senators, unwilling to waste even the necessary time it takes to undress, have taken to sleeping in their clothes in the senate building and other friendly haunts and byways.

There were even queer hours and unusual ones at 8:30 a. m.

• • •

THE house of representatives had been limping inexcusable hours and was feeling fine.

After adjournment at 1:01 a concert.

The senators would have been welcome if urged to attend, but "ugly ladies with notebooks" was the popular refrain at the north end of the Capitol, as Vice President Dawes' gavel fell. It's for the boys.

It's reported in the hotel lobbies that some senators are sleeping yet.

OHIO OPERATORS TO HALT MINE WORK MAR. 31

Assert They See No Way of Avoiding General Shutdown; Agreement Expires

Columbus, Mar. 11.—Plans for closing mines of Ohio on the third and most widely upon the expiration of the Jacksonville wage agreement Mar. 31, were being made today by members of the Ohio Mine Operators' Association, following a conference here last night.

The operators assert that they see no way of avoiding a general shutdown unless a last-minute settlement of negotiations with the United Mine Workers Union, should outline a temporary plan for keeping the mines in operation while a permanent wage agreement is worked out, it was said.

Would Affect 50,000

The Ohio operators indicated no recession from the stand taken at the recent conference in Florida with the miners' representatives, at which they stood ready for a sliding wage scale with a minimum wage of $6 a day, but refused to grant the check-off of union dues. The miners demanded a 10 per cent increase and the check-off.

A general suspension of operations in the Ohio fields will affect about 50,000 miners, it is estimated. Approximately 7,000 of these are employed in the Pomeroy Coal district, Belmont, which has been producing 5,000 tons per day.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Theodore Archaus, 241 Bellevue avenue, underwent an operation for the removal of his tonsils yesterday. His condition is reported to be improving.

It tastes so good so rich and smooth and the tender bran is so valuable

Most little children, doctors say, should have a certain amount of tender roughage—and the bran covering of the oat is especially good for them because it is so tender.

That is why Mother's Oats has the approval of child health specialists who urge the importance of the natural whole grains. Vitamins and minerals known to be necessary for growth are liberally supplied by a bowl of Mother's Oats and milk—and an abundance of the tissue-forming protein of which children often fail to get enough.

Let your growing children have this healthful growth food often. See how they love its rich whole-grain flavor—see how they appreciate its extra smoothness that comes from the fifty years of experience of its careful millers.

Two kinds—the kind you have always known or Quick (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes). Both with coupons interchangeable with the Aunt Jemima coupons that bring you silverware, toilet articles, and many other fine furnishings for your home.

Mrs. Anna Dunham

Kalamazoo, Mich.—"I can recommend Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets to all those who are having trouble with their kidneys. I consider 'Anuric' the best medicine obtainable. My kidneys were weak, my back ached. I was bothered a great deal at night and suffered from scalding and burning of the secretion, which was full of sediment. Knowing of Dr. Pierce's medicines I decided to take his 'Anuric' tablets for my trouble and they relieved me of the backache, strengthened my kidneys and cleared up the secretion. I have not been bothered with my kidneys since—they have been acting in a perfectly normal way."—Mrs. Anna Dunham, 201 E. Ransom St. All druggists.

"Why Girls Go Back Home"

If Youth But Knew

BY JAMES COUZENS

United States Senator

IT is always appropriate to inspire youth when possible to aid them in securing the best out of life. What is the best to be gotten out of life, is determined by what we put into it.

JAMES COUZENS

No satisfaction—at least no enduring satisfaction—can be obtained by the slogan, "What is there in it for me." The greatest element of success and satisfaction you can get is from the slogan, "What is the best I can do." This applies no matter what your vocation—no matter what [illegible]

Both teams are meeting three or four times a week and each member is putting in all his spare time bettering his speech and obtaining material.

The lineup of the teams will be as follows: first affirmative, Lenore Bendley, second affirmative, Mary Alice Neal; third affirmative, Robert Canterbury, and alternate Jane Canterbury.

First negative, Julius Sabback, second negative, Joe Rinnert, and Lucille Hunt, as alternate.

NUTRITION WORK PAYS AT SILVER STREET SCHOOL

Survey Shows Results Have Been Very Favorable; Pupils Gain Weight

A complete check of the results of the nutrition work in Silver Street School has just been completed by the school nurse, Mrs. F. E. Mangans. The results have proved very satisfactory. The milk, graham wafers and straws are furnished by the women's federation of clubs.

The pupils were weighed and examined by the school nurse. Those found to be more than three pounds under normal weight were selected for the class. These pupils were chosen two mthe first, second and third grades. At the regular morning recess the pupils of the nutrition class go to the lunch room where each receives a half-pint of milk and a graham wafer. Thus the nutrition class does not interfere in any way with the regular work. The time required to serve the entire class of sixty pupils is less than 15 minutes.

The recent check shows that the total gain for the whole class is 185 pounds, or an average gain of 3 1-12 pounds.

The largest single gain was 12 pounds. The report shows that every child has made some gain. Eighteen members of the class are now up to or above normal weight; 22 are within less than three pounds of normal weight.

The nutrition work in Silver Street School is no longer an experiment but considered one of the school's regular activities, teachers say.

Home Treatment For Gall Stones Highly Praised

Reports from Many Grateful Users Say It Saved Them an Operation. Pleasant and Inexpensive to Use.

For over a year now, many drug stores throughout the middle west have been recommending an inexpensive tablet called "Klax-Ko" for the successful home treatment of gall stones, gall bladder trouble and hepatic torpidity.

According to written reports the simple home use of "Klax-Ko" tablets has produced wonderfully beneficial results in hundreds of cases. Men and women of all ages, but particularly those in middle life seem to be especially benefited. One man says—"I suffered greatly from gall stone and liver trouble. Doctor said I must have an operation. The night before I was scheduled for the hospital a friend insisted I try "Klax-Ko" tablets first. I commenced to feel better and in a few days was out of the house and back to work and I haven't ever had an attack since. I surely am grateful for Klax-Ko."

If you are bothered by dizzy spells, headaches, shortness of breath, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often shoot through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, weakness, nervousness and restless nights, you should give "Klax-Ko" tablets a trial at once, and you are invited to do so without slightest risk of cost unless fully pleased with results. Ask Bradley Drug Store or any good druggist for Klax-Ko today.—Adv.

G. M. AND N. COMMON IN SPECTACULAR MOVEMENT

Gain of 16 Points Since Yesterday Noon Registered on Market

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks strong; industrial stocks strong; domestic bonds irregular; foreign bonds fairly steady; call money four per cent; grain steady; copper firm; oil irregular; cotton firm; rubber steady; sugar steady; pig iron firm; foreign exchange irregular.

New York, Mar. 11—Brilliant forward price movements in a number of the railroad and specialty stocks featured an otherwise dull and irregular stock market today. The week's reserve bank reports emphasized the broadening of the American credit structure, but new developments in industry and trade were unimportant.

Gulf Mobile and Northern common stock, the latest addition to the spectacular "merger group" in the speculative rail shares, jumped to 64 1-2 in a rapid forward movement, completing a gain of 16 points since yesterday noon. Since earnings on this road in the last few years have never exceeded $5 a share, and the accumulated dividends on the preferred stock aggregate 17 per cent., the latest movement in the stock could be accounted for only on the basis of buying for the account of a larger road, possibly the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy or the Illinois Central, with which the road connects at Jackson, Tenn.

Atchison continued its spectacular rise in the divided rail group, selling above 177 for the first time in the history of that road. New York Central, Missouri Pacific and Rock Island exhibited unusual strength, while Wabash and Kansas City Southern, after an early advance, fell away rapidly in the last trading. Stocks of the northwestern roads had a good turnover at current prices.

Among the constructive reports of the day were, the influx of large buying orders for finished steel, building material and automobiles; the restoring of dividends on well-known industrial concerns and the increase in others; the certainty of higher prices for automobile tires and the cheerful tone of the weekly trade review.

Though a few of the market leaders forged ahead a point or so at the beginning of the session, the bulk of speculative shares were held back by profit-taking and speculative selling, week-end profit taking was in order following five or six days of uninterrupted advance and offerings of stock from this source were quite heavy. Commission houses also had the stop-loss problem to contend with, since each decline of a point or two in the market favorites uncovered a good volume of these orders.

Bearish "drives" against the fast moving industrial and specialty stocks netted small results for the reason that excellent buying demand appeared at the lower levels, either from investment buyers or from the bullish pools which are vigorously operating in the stocks at this time. Such drives were generally followed by sharp recoveries, which generally occurred under the leadership of the better grade of dividend stocks.

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Strawberries are getting cheap enough for those who look on them as luxuries at this time of year to enjoy some of this fruit occasionally. The berries are selling for 35 cents a box today, and the quality of the fruit is high. Predictions of dealers are that prices will be large supplies and the price will be much cheaper as the season advances for the southern crop of berries is said to be good this year.

Other fruits and produce are unchanged today, and the prices are unchanged. Large supplies of fancy ripe tomatoes were on the market and selling rapidly. The shipped-in potatoes being received lately are choice, mealy in size and are arriving here in fine condition.

Supplies of radishes being received are larger also and this vegetable sells fast. The price for the radishes is 10 cents a bunch.

Eggs took a slight upward trend on wholesale markets yesterday, the price going from 18 to 19½ cents a dozen. The retail price will reflect this advance in a few days. The egg market has touched bottom in price and the swing upward will be steady, it is predicted.

J. M. GRACE GIVEN $250 FINE BY JUDGE MARTIN

Enters Plea of Guilty to Charges of Illegal Possession of Liquor

A fine of $250 was assessed in Municipal Court this morning against J. M. Grace, 24, of 149 N. Main-st, following his plea of guilty to the charge of illegal possession of liquor.

Grace was arrested at his home shortly before 10 o'clock last night and at the same time police confiscated a gallon container containing about three quarts of corn liquor and a quantity of mash filled with evidence used in the manufacture of liquor.

"I never sold any liquor last winter when I was out of work and did not sell any other time," Grace told Judge Martin. Chief of Police Maurice Jones and Detective Sergeant Ralph Miller were taking no action on the complaint against Grace when it was received.

Columbus, Mar. 11—Attorneys G. A. Rosch and C. H. Workman, Mansfield, as counsel for R. C. THIEVES TAKE PARTS FROM TWO MOTORCARS

The problem of obtaining parts and accessories was easily solved by thieves operating here last night, reports on file at police headquarters show.

The hood was stolen from the Ford roadster of C. H. Bobleuz, farmer residing on R. F. D. No. 1, while it was parked at 618 N. Prospect-st last night and the thieves also helped themselves to the car's floor mat.

Another Ford roadster, owned by Mrs. George Wells of 238 E. Georgest, claimed the attention of thieves who dissected the headlights and carried away both lenses, light bulbs and the lamp rims. This theft occurred about 10 o'clock last night while the car was parked on Oliver-av.

The money paid the infant's nurse is likely to be hush money.

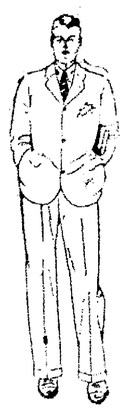
The new Spring Clothes by

Society Brand



The College Style for Spring

Not only for college men—but for all who like the smartness of college styles. Observe the straight, full effect of the jacket; the high coin lapels; the widely spaced buttons.

A Great 3-Button Style

Three button suits will be more popular this Spring than at any time in years. This is the correct cut:—Fairly broad shoulders, a slight waist suppression, coin lapels.

Here, and ready for your inspection! It's always an event—this first look at the styles for Spring—but this year it seems to be twice the event of other seasons.

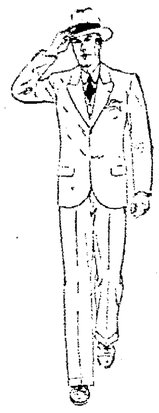
For one thing, the styles themselves are more interesting than at any time in years. There are new ideas—new style points that are worth watching. There are new fabric ideas too—all interesting.

Society Brand have outdone themselves in the fine distinction they have given to these new models. And in the richness of their exclusive fabrics; Bristol Stripes and Piping Rocks for suits; Beverly Tweeds for topcoats.

All in all, it will be worth your while to look over the new display—when you do, you'll say that for real variety, for correct styles, for value, there's nothing to equal it anywhere.

The New 2-Button

All young men who lean toward the conservative in clothes will like this model. Broad shouldered, with plenty of chest; a trim waist, coin lapels.



Distinctly for Young Men

It's the style for the broad shouldered young man of today. Notice the tapering effect from the shoulders to the narrow hips. Good looking—and altogether correct.
